Why A Weighted Blanket?

A good night of sleep is priceless!

Everyone needs the gift of a night of un-interrupted sleep in order to function well in family and social settings the next day. This can be so elusive for those on the autistic spectrum.

In desperation, parents and caregivers find they have no choice but to turn to medications. But with every drug comes a whole set of problems and side effects, further complicating an already difficult situation.

A weighted blanket provides the sensory input that can make a full night of natural sleep finally possible for these extra special people. And when that happens, everyone has a much better day. The carefully planned efforts of parents and caregivers to make healthy interaction and learning happen, now have a much better chance of success.

A weighted lap pad, shoulder wrap or vest can also help with the challenges of the day. More and more parents, caregivers and teachers are discovering these natural settling tools and requesting them.

—A little weight—
It's a very good thing.

WEIGHTED BLANKETS

Discover the wonderful results a Weighted Blanket provides as a sensory aid for calming and settling. Very effective for difficulty falling asleep or staying asleep. Weight is quilted into the body area of the blanket and slightly concentrated to the upper chest area. (or weight can be evenly distributed upon request) Smaller blankets are great for hauling around. Larger blankets tend to stay in place better on a bed. Clean and cool Fine Grade Stone weight or polybead in weights of 7 pounds or less by request. Many prints and colors to choose from. Four layers of quality fabric. Close stitching. Machine washable—Line dry.
